

Michelle Grove Herzog Bio

Michelle Grove Herzog began her career as a musician before she realized that she had strong organizational and contracting skills. It wasn't long before "the wheels started turning and her eyes were opened up to the world of arts administration."

After going back to school and earning her MA in Arts Management at American University, Grove Herzog worked as a grantmaker with several agencies and as a university presenter. She now primarily focuses her work as an independent consultant on grantmaking and programs in service of the field at the local, regional, and national levels, in addition to work at the University in the arts administration program.